

The Great Transition

A new generation of leaders abandon self-interest to confront shared environmental, social, technological, and industrial challenges

Nations embrace long-term, forward-looking policies and frameworks that prioritize the well-being of all peoples

Rent-seeking practices are abandoned in favour of long-term sustainability and shared prosperity

With continued improvements in pollution reduction and process efficiencies, the mining industry becomes widely accepted

Advanced technologies and automation are integrated across major industrial ecosystems, enhancing industry performance

A global crisis sparks unprecedented unity

Future Mining Scenarios

A forward-looking exploration of the mining industry's future, set against the backdrop of the year 2050

Download
full report

